Canada's Registration

Its Purpose and Application

CANADA faces the gravest crisis in her history. Four years of war have taken from the Dominion a heavy toll in talent and labor, yet despite the shortage of man power, our Allies still depend on Canada to maintain her own fighting forces at full strength and to increase her exports of food and war materials, so vital to them, and to the successful prosecution of the war.

Every ounce by which Canada can increase her food production and every ounce Canada can save in her food consumption is needed for export to the Allies.

Should the war continue for another year, food cards and a rationing system may have to be instituted. It is the duty of Canada to be prepared for whatever situation circumstances may force upon her.

It is quite probable that before the war is won our Government may have to place restrictions upon the occupations in which men and women may engage. In such an event the Government wishes to be in a position to render all possible assistance in keeping our population usefully and profitably employed.

Registration Day, June 22nd

These conditions point to the necessity of Canada knowing the exact capabilities of her men and women at home.

All persons residing in Canada, male or female, British or of ten of 16 years and over, will be required to register on June 22nd and truthfully answer the questions set forth upon the registration card.

It is not the Government's intention to conscript labour in any form, but to assist in directing it wisely, so that every available unit of human energy may be utilized to the best advantage.

The information procured through registration will be used as an aid to the Ministry of Labour in the distribution of the men necessary to maintain the war effort. It is essential to more essential occupations—to establish and intelligently administer a system of food rationing should that become necessary.

Enforcement of Food Regulations Placed On Municipalities

Enforcement of the Canada Food Board's regulations as to food conservation has been placed in the hands of the police machinery of the municipalities and of the different provinces throughout the Dominion.

It is the duty and privilege of the Provinces to enforce federal laws and the Orders of the Canada Food Board have the effect of federal law, being passed upon authority of Orders issued by the Privy Council and published in the Canada Gazette. It, therefore, becomes the duty of police officers throughout the Dominion to acquaint themselves with these regulations regarding our food supply and to see to it that they are obeyed. At this stage of the world's food situation, when 1,750,000 people in Europe have starved to death as compared to 4,250,000 soldiers who have died as the direct result of battle, it is beyond cavil or dispute that these food regulations are absolutely necessary. Indeed many people in communication with friends in England or in France think our Canadian regulations mild in view of what people on the other side are undergoing. Patriotism as well as duty should inspire submission to these regulations by the public and vigilant enforcement of them by the officers of the law.

In cases of convictions secured by the municipal police officers, it should be noted that where these convictions result in the imposition of fines, the money from these fines is to be paid to the municipal treasuries, and similarly in the cases where Provincial officers secure convictions. The Canada Food Board has circularized these Orders in official form throughout the police machinery of the various provinces, beginning with the Attorneys-General and continuing through the lists of Crown Attorneys and Crown Prosecutors. In some provinces the chief constables have also received copies of the various Orders affecting the public. As a result, throughout Canada of recent weeks, there has been a crop of convictions. In all cases the Magistrates have stood firmly behind the regulations and imposed the penalties provided. These run from $100 to $1000 in fines or imprisonment up to three months or both. Restaurant keepers, who have served meat on prohibited days and hours, served sugar on the tables or have wasted food, have been brought to task and the wide spread publicity this has entailed will do a great deal more to assure conservation of food in public eating places than anything else.

The Anti-Loafing Law, also bearing upon our war-time food production, has likewise been enforced. Magistrates have seized the opportunity of dealing with loafers, tramps and "sports" by putting them to work on farms. "Non-essential" industries have been interpreted by some Magistrates into more or less definite groups and men who had no better excuse than employment in said questionable industries have been ordered to get into more useful occupations. In Winnipeg a great change has been observed in the streets since this law went into effect. The idlers and loafers have disappeared.

Boys enrolled as farm helpers in the Soldiers of the Soil organization, under the auspices of the Canada Food Board, are doing good work with the seeding. In Ontario 15,000 boys have been enrolled, many of them are now on the land; in Manitoba over 1000 are at work; in Saskatchewan 1100 are placed; in Alberta 624; in British Columbia 540; in Nova Scotia 1398; in Quebec over 1000 have been already enrolled. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are still to be heard from but the enrollment is under way.

The food shortage is recognized as so serious in Europe that the soldiers are cultivating 50,000 acres between the lines in France, 7,000 in Salonica and approximately 700,000 in Mesopotamia, Egypt, Palestine and Cyprus. In Egypt, Palestine and Salonica the British armies will this year grow all their own vegetables and a large part of their hay and forage. All the military camps in England are being cultivated also. At Aldershot, where 28 acres were being cultivated 18 months ago, 1200 acres are now under cultivation.

Making the Forest Fireproof

Several forest fires have already occurred in various parts of Canada this year and fire rangers appeal to the public to keep a vigilant outlook for small conflagrations. In practically every case the cause of these fires was traced to human hands—a tossed-away cigarette, a neglected campfire, or similar act that at the moment appeared trifling. Settlers, anxious to burn their "slash" in the hottest weather without obeying Government regulations are a prolific cause of forest fires every year.

The rangers of this province are asking the co-operation of every man, woman and child this year so as to keep the forest losses down to a minimum as a matter of decent patriotism. Special efforts are being made to provide fire fighting equipment but the main task is to prevent fires from starting. This is a comparatively easy matter if every camper puts out his campfire, every smoker extinguishes his cigarette and match before tossing away. When a bush fire is seen, instant word should be sent to the nearest fire ranger, railroad agent or municipal officer.

Notice is hereby given that George Madden, of Didsbury, in the Province of Alberta, intends to apply for a license to operate a pool room at Olser Street. The application has been approved by M. M. Downey.

GERMANY IS ALREADY LAYING PLANS FOR NEXT GREAT WAR

ENEMY SPREADING THE GOSPEL OF CONQUEST

Peace That May Be Concluded With Germany That Does Not Involve Her Destruction as a Military Power May Only Be Regarded as a Mere Armistice

If an Englishman should now write a book discussing the possibilities of the next war, assert that war is the best occupation of mankind and that to prepare for it we should among other things be very careful to preserve the aristocratic idea, he could in the first place get nobody to publish it. If he produced it at his own expense he might consider himself lucky if a court adjudged him insane. Otherwise he would be lynched. Yet such a book has been written in Germany by Lieutenant-General Baron von Freytag-Loringhoven and it is a fit companion for the books of Bernhardi, which did so much to develop in the German people the spirit that has horrified the world in the past three years. The baron is no mere dreamer, no irresponsible theorist, no fanatic with a hobby that has unhinged his mind. He stands high in the war councils of Germany. He is the especial confidante of Ludendorff. In fact, he is deputy chief of the general staff of the German army. His book, entitled, "Deductions from the World War," was published last fall, and is said to have had a great sale in Germany. Efforts to prevent it from circulating outside the country were made, but a few copies were smuggled out, and from one of them an English edition has been prepared.

Its importance is such that it is a duty to impress upon the public the significance of this work. It confirms an opinion that has been more than once expressed in these columns, namely, that the Germans must be judged as a people, and that to make distinctions between the kaiser and the junker class and the rest of Germany is both idle and vicious so far as militarism is concerned. There was a time in the war when certain English and Canadian publicists sought to impress upon the people that they must not hate the Germans; that we must consider them as unfortunate sufferers from a poison; that we were not to be their executioners, but rather their kindly, if firm, attendants and physicians. Until quite lately some such idea appears to have been entertained by President Wilson. It is reasonable to suppose that the German people know themselves best, and if there are any yet who persist in the doctrine that the Germans have had forced upon them a form of government which they abhor, and that they are really decent, kindly, peace-loving folk at heart, the words of Prince Bulow are interesting: "Militarism is not a Prussian invention," he says, "Militarism is Prussia herself."

It seems incredible that after this war Germany should still have a taste for slaughter, but it is plain that Baron Freytag-Loringhoven is acting on this belief. There is only one thing that will cure this maniacal bent in the German mind, and that is absolute, overwhelming defeat, bitter suffering and a league of nations that will constitute itself an armed guard of Germany for a generation and more to come. The baron laughs at the idea of ridding the world of war by means of mutual agreements. He admits that there will be agreements, but says that occasions must continue to arise when the forces in one nation will refuse to be controlled by an agreement made years before. The notion of a universal league for the preservation of peace is ridiculous, he says, and any proud-spirited nation would regard such an organization as "intolerable tutelage." Equally Utopian, therefore, is the idea that Germany herself should be invited to join such a league. There was, in fact, if not in name, such a league before the war began; that is to say a league of nations that would not provoke war. Germany was supposed to be a member of it. Hence the present struggle.

Freytag spreads the gospel of war among the German people. If he has any regrets as a result of the developments of the present war the chief is that the Germans have not sufficiently studied war. He quotes with approval the words of Frederick, who wrote in 1768: "The military art demands continuous study if one desires to attain a thorough mastery of it. I am far from flattering myself that I am far from exhausting myself in opinion that a human lifetime is not long enough in order to pursue it to the very end." Plainly it will be the duty of German scientists to concentrate their attention on the problem of increasing the span of human life, so that Germany may produce a certain number of murderers who will begin the study of military science at the age of three and continue it for a hundred years or so. On their deathbeds they will then be able to hand their plans to the ruling kaiser or president and permit him to start the next war with better prospects of success.

As regards the practical lessons learned from this war, the baron says that in future there must be a great increase in the number of machine guns to a company. Cavalry ought not to be proportionately increased, but a considerable force will be necessary. The system of training must be made to include men not now subject to it. In fact, every male, able-bodied or not, must have military training. The navy must be greatly increased, but how it is to be increased he does not say. Perhaps the idea is to take over the British navy as a going concern. He points out the necessity of seizing industrial centres and coal fields in neutral countries and admits that economic conditions will continue to play an increasing part in future wars. The lesson we should read from this book is that any peace that may be concluded with Germany that does not involve her destruction as a military power will be regarded as a mere armistice, which will enable her to raise another army and make another bid for world domination.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Compensation by Government for Diseased Animals Slaughtered

A bill will be introduced by the minister of agriculture at the present session increasing the amounts to be paid by the government to the owners of animals slaughtered under the operation of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act. The amount to be paid must not exceed in the case of grade animals $200 for each horse, $80 for each head of cattle and $20 for each pig or sheep. In the case of pure-bred animals the amount to be paid will not exceed $500 for each horse, $250 for each head of cattle and $75 for each pig or sheep. These amendments to the act are to remain in force for three years.

Permits for Canadians

Food Supply for Wives and Dependents in England

A matter which closely affects the wives and other dependents of Canadian soldiers now in England is their position under the food rationing system, shortly to be extended to the whole country. It has been laid down especially that all officers, soldiers and their families (with any servants) must be in possession of permits to deal in foodstuffs at regimental institutes. Such permit will state on it the total number of persons comprising the soldier's household, and in the case of women will contain an undertaking that they are not drawing separation or dependents' allowances. Each permit is available for three months.

The amount of the articles to be purchased at the institutes will be varied in accordance with the periodical orders of the food controller.

Japan's Navy

She Is to Expend Nearly £15,000,000 on Her Fleet During 1918

Notwithstanding the scarcity of steel Japan is to expend nearly £15,000,000 on her navy during 1918. Some of the enhanced outlay will be met from surplus funds and increased revenue, but most of it will depend on increased taxes. The total increase in income tax will amount to about 20 per cent. on an average, the wealthier classes feeling it most. The directors of seven Japanese shipyards, have decided to offer to supply 1 1/2 tons of shipping to America for every ton of steel despatched from America. They are prepared to undertake to supply nearly 300,000 tons of shipping to America.

In 1917 the agricultural societies of the province of Saskatchewan held 13 spring stallion shows, 50 ploughing matches, 2 good farming competitions, 133 exhibitions, 23 standing crop competitions, 52 seed fairs, 17 poultry shows and 60 short courses.

THE SUPERIORITY OF CIVILIZATION OVER METHODS OF BARBARISM

THE SUPERIOR INVARIABLY DOMINATES INFERIOR

All of the Uncivilized Methods of the Enemy, While at Times Coming as a Surprise to the Allies, Have Been Systematically Met and Overcome

In one of his informing articles in "Land and Water," Mr. Hilaire Belloc points out in a striking way the growth of superiority upon the side of civilization, and the corresponding decline upon the side of its enemies, as illustrated by the war. He remarks that the great war has seen three waves of this sort. After the unprovoked and unexpected attack was checked and broken at the Marne, and held before Ypres, Europe began to recover itself, and during the next six months the inferiority of barbarism became apparent. The rate of munitionment, the improvisation of armies from Britain, the development of work in the air, the production of heavy artillery on a scale before unheard of—in all these new things civilization grew rapidly up in the race and began to get ahead of the enemy.

Mr. Belloc gives one impressive example. In August, 1914, the large howitzer which the Austrians had produced was first employed. The Germans, who alone were thoroughly preparing and planning for war, had worked out the effect of the fire of these huge weapons, as regulated by the new and hitherto impossible method of observation from the air. The result was that the ring fortresses, upon which French theory reposed, were quickly reduced, though, except for observation from the air, these fortresses would have stood indefinitely. This new piece had taken about three years to design and develop, until the hour struck when Prussia decided that the moment for her successful surprise had come. While these great engines were known to exist, their effect was a surprise, but they had no great mobility, because their only function was to reduce siege works. The French faced the problem at once, and in a very short time Mr. Belloc saw the castings of a gun, not a stationary howitzer, but a weapon possessing great mobility. He had to keep quiet about it, and those who showed him what was being done were met by his natural criticism that the recoil could not be absorbed, and that such a huge gun could not have the mobility which was absolutely essential. His criticisms were immediately answered, and, although he was not allowed at the time to know the secret of the solution, it was not very long before these enormous pieces were brought forward, and it was shown that they had completely absorbed their recoil. This is only one example of the way in which civilization catches up with each unexpected success of the enemy.

Another example is the introduction of poison gas, to the horror of civilization. The civilized nations quickly beat the German at his own game. He had prepared defensive methods against such a gas. We elaborated better ones. He came into the field with a just appreciation of the machine gun and of trench weapons, in which we were hopelessly behindhand. We produced more, if not better, of the one, and certainly better of the other. He decided to bombard civilization in open towns from the air—an abominable act before heard of, and indeed strictly forbidden by conventions to which the German had put his hand. We devised defences against such action superior to his own, and we now appear as his superior even in that last deplorable development which, as he himself chose and commenced, he must now suffer from.

All this the enemy knows just as clearly as we do. As Mr. Belloc points out, we were catching him up and passing him when he got his first respite through the inability of the eastern Slavs to munition themselves by lack of industrial power.

COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

One of the reasons why Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is becoming more and more popular is, because it does not attract attention in the mouth.

It is not chewed; on the contrary, a small pinch is placed in the mouth between the lower lip and gum.

This gives complete satisfaction without chewing, and leaves a pleasant, cool after-taste.

Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco is scientifically prepared, of the best old, ripe, high flavored leaf tobacco.

It is in the form of small grains, and being very rich, only a small quantity should be placed in the mouth.

"It's the most economical chew."

This Tells of a Method That Cures Without Using Drugs

Elderly people take cold easily. Unlike young folks, they recover slowly. That is why so many people past middle life die of pneumonia.

Cough Syrups seldom do much good because they upset digestion. Any doctor knows that a much more effective treatment is "CATARRHOZONE," which heals and soothes the irritated surfaces of the throat.

In using Catarrhozone you do not take medicine into the stomach—you simply breathe into the throat, nose and lungs rich, piney balsamic vapor, so full of healing power that colds, catarrh and bronchitis disappear almost instantly.

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

A Catarrhozone Inhaler in your pocket or purse enables you to stop a cold with the first sneeze. Large size costs $1.00, and supplies treatment for two months, small size, 50c; trial size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

"Ah! he said, 'you have heard from Lawrence.'"

"But the letter's about him," Featherstone replied, and sitting down opposite, was silent for a few moments. His pose was slack and he looked as if he had got a shock.

"I don't see how you can help, but perhaps you had better know how matters are," he resumed and gave the letter to Foster.

It was short, but Foster, who was surprised and disturbed, understood his host's alarm. Daly had written from Hexham, asking, or rather summoning, Featherstone to meet him there next day, although he stated that if this was impossible, he would arrive at the Garth in the evening. There was a threat in the intimation that it would be to Lawrence's advantage if Featherstone saw him soon.

"Well," said Foster dryly, "it looks as if our plot had succeeded better than we thought. We certainly didn't expect the fellow would follow me to England."

Featherstone did not seem to understand, and Foster remembered that with the object of saving him anxiety, he had said nothing about Daly's having extorted money from Lawrence in Canada. He now explained the situation in a few words as possible.

"But Lawrence ought to have told me!" Featherstone exclaimed.

"I don't know that it would have been of much use. You see, Lawrence meant to put Daly off the track, and if he failed in this, to fight. When I heard of it, I quite agreed."

"But he can't fight," Featherstone objected in a strained voice. "I'd have urged him to do so, if it had been possible. We're not cowards."

"Why is it impossible?"

"Don't you know?" Featherstone asked with some surprise.

"I know my partner's in trouble; that's all."

Featherstone hesitated, as if he wanted to take the other into his confidence, but shrank from doing so. Then he said with forced quietness: "If this rogue knows as much as I suspect he can get my son arrested."

"On a serious charge? I don't ask what it is."

"It would mean a long imprisonment, to say nothing of the humiliation," Featherstone answered brokenly, and was silent for a minute with the firelight on his tense face.

Then he went on with an effort: "I must tell you what I can. Lawrence in a desperate moment injured, I had better call it robbed, a relative of ours. The boy had got into difficulties, but hitherto, although he had been a fool, there was a certain generosity in his rashness. He was very hard pressed—I have seen that since—but I can make no excuse for what he did."

"He made good afterwards," Foster interposed.

"We tried to think so, but it looks as if one can't make good. The punishment for a wrong done, or consented to, must be borne. Well, when I learned the truth I went to the man my son had robbed and offered to repay him. He said he would take no money, for reasons that I ought to grasp, and sent me away afraid, because I knew he was hard and very just."

Featherstone paused, and Foster, who murmured a few words of awkward sympathy, waited until he resumed: "I am a magistrate, pledged to do my duty, but I helped my boy to escape, and the man I was afraid of did nothing, though he knew. After a time, I went to him again, and he gave me to understand that he would not interfere so long as Lawrence stayed away, but must be free to take the proper line if he came back. It's obvious now that he knew my son's faults and meant to give him the chance of overcoming them by hard work in Canada. At last, when he was very ill, he sent for me, and said I could let Lawrence know he was forgiven."

"Ah!" said Foster, "now I understand what my partner meant."

"This was not long before you came," Featherstone continued. "It was a wonderful relief to know the danger was over, and then you told us how Lawrence had grown out of his folly and become a useful man. Although we longed to see him, our satisfaction was complete. Now this letter comes, and I fear my wife is unable to bear the strain again."

Foster was moved by his distress. Featherstone was proud and honorable, and it must have cost him much to help his son to steal away. Indeed, Foster thought what he had done then would always trouble him, and after all it had proved useless. The worst was that his sensitive uprightness might make him an easy victim of the unscrupulous adventurer. But Foster did not mean him to be victimized. As a rule, he was rather humorous than dramatic, but he got up and stood with his hands clenched.

"This thing touches us both, sir. Lawrence is your son, but he's my friend, and I've got to see him through, which warrants my giving you the best advice I can. Very well, you must show a bold front to Daly; to begin with, you can't go to Hexham."

Featherstone gave him a grateful glance. He felt dejected and desperate, but Foster looked comfortingly resolute. At first he had welcomed him for his son's sake, but had come to like him for himself.

"No," he agreed, "I can't go; but that doesn't help us, because he'll come here."

"Yes; he must be met. But do you know how he came to learn about the matter?"

"I don't, but my relative, who was interested in politics and social schemes, had a secretary. I can't remember his name, but this might be the fellow."

"Then it's curious he didn't get on Lawrence's track before. Anyway, he must be met with the bluff direct now."

"How can he be bluffed?" Featherstone asked with a hopeless gesture. "He can have my son arrested, if I don't agree to his demands."

"He would first have to tell the police all he knew, and as soon as he did this his hold on you would be gone. Then they'd ask why he'd kept the secret, which would be remarkably hard to answer, although he might perhaps take the risk out of malice if he saw you meant to be firm. For all that, you must be firm; you can't buy him off. He'd come back later with a fresh demand. Would your estate stand the strain?"

"My wife and daughter would make any sacrifice for Lawrence's sake."

"The sacrifice would benefit this bloodsucker, which is a different thing," Foster rejoined. "Then, even of you impoverished your family, you'd only put off the reckoning, which would come when the fellow had taken all you'd got. In short, he must be bluffed off now."

He sat down and pondered and there was silence for some minutes. It had got dark and he heard the steady patter of the rain. He knew he had undertaken a difficult task, and felt daunted because he could not see his way. Still, it looked as if the happiness of these charming people and perhaps his partner's future depended upon him. If that were so, he must not fail them.

Among the advertisements in a paper appeared the following: "The gentleman who found a purse with money in it is requested to forward it to the address of the loser, as he is recognized." A few days afterward the reply was inserted: "The recognized gentleman who picked up a purse requests the loser to call at his house."

"If the kaiser would only lead one charge!" exclaims the Philadelphia Record.

What the Plough Is Supposed to Do

Various Types of Ploughs for the Various Kinds of Land to Be Ploughed

Aside from crumbling the soil, the chief objects of ploughing are to destroy wild plants so that cultivated ones may take their place; and to bury trash, manure, stubble and potato vines. A plough that does not accomplish these things is faulty. All refuse should be completely covered so that it will not be brought to the surface by the harrow. To bury weeds, clover or other tall green manure crops, a chisel should be used, one end attached to the plough beam the other to the double tree, thus allowing the loop to pull the tall plants down into the furrow to be covered. The jointer or skin-coulters is little used in many districts. Many farmers do not even know what it is. When manure, stubble or grass is to be turned under, it is a very useful attachment. It skims a shallow furrow slice and deposits it in the bottom of the furrow, where it is covered by the main furrow slice and will not more readily. When stubble or grass is ploughed without a jointer, there is likely to be a line of it between the furrows, which interferes with the harrow or begins to grow and cause trouble. This is a common sight, but could, and should, be overcome by the use of the jointer. The implement dealers of the country could perform a distinct service to agriculture by encouraging the general use of jointers on plows. There should be one on every farm.

It is well to have various types of plows for the various kinds of land to be plowed. This costs more, but greater efficiency results. A sod plow will not do good work in soft stubble lands, nor will a stubble plow perform well in stiff sod.—From "Handbook for Farmers," published by the Commission of Conservation.

The Oldest Joke

Speaking of hoary jests, a recent excavation in Egypt has unearthed the oldest joke on record—naturally it was a pun. The mother of an Egyptian Prince, thousands of years before Caesar was born, had just died, and her body was prepared, as was the custom, to adorn the ancestral catacombs. A friend of the Prince looked at the solemn procession, and then whispered to the Prince, "Look, there goes your mummy."—The Canadian Sapper.

Defeated or Regenerated

The war drags on; the destruction of the world's best life goes from more to more; the longing for peace is painfully intense—and all the while it becomes clearer and clearer that peace cannot be made with an undefeated Germany, constituted as Germany is to-day.

There are a good many people who found it hard to believe, in the beginning, that this war was different from many others in which the fault was on both sides, and the responsibility pretty evenly divided. These people knew that patriotic feeling binds the judgment, and they wondered if an impartial tribunal would not distribute the blame for the present conflict. They wondered also if by coming together and compromising their respective aims it might not be possible for the contending nations to construct a righteous peace.

Those hopes and fancies have been largely dissipated by successive revelations of the German spirit that have recently appeared. The memorandum of Prince Lichnowsky, the German Ambassador to England, for example, confirms the showing of the British White Book that Sir Edward Grey and the British Government did everything possible to preserve the peace, but that the German authorities were determined to have war. The comment of the German Foreign Minister, von Jagow, on the Lichnowsky document confirms this judgment. Then we have to the same effect the testimony of Doctor Muehlton, in 1914 a director of the Krupp works, who went from Germany and is now in Switzerland because he felt he could have no further complicity with a government bent on conquest and plunder. As to what Germany intends to do with other nations if she wins, there is abundant evidence in her treatment of Russia, and the newly organized territories which once formed part of Russia. With these she is doing what Napoleon did in the zenith of his power—annexing where she sees fit and in other cases imposing puppet governments subject to German control. As to the German plans for after the war, we have a forecast of these also. Baron von Freytag-Loringhoven, Deputy Chief of the German Imperial Staff, has written a book entitled, "Deductions from the World War." Among the Baron's deductions perhaps the most important is that Germany was not quite well enough prepared for the present war, but the weaknesses in her preparation have been revealed, and the system is to be rebuilt upon such firm economic military and naval foundations that in the next war Germany shall be irresistible.

When we put these things together it becomes plain that there can be no liberty or justice for the world in the days to come unless Germany is defeated or regenerated. The way to defeat may be long and painful. If we must walk in it let us pray that God may Give us strength and courage to endure. But let us pray at the same time that, by His divine power, He would change the heart of Germany, overthrow the military monsters who are riding her to ruin, and bring the German people together with the other nations into a great union of peace and mutual help.

Bad Year Ahead

In Forest Fires

Rangers Ask Public to Help Them Keep Fire Out of the Woods

The danger season for forest fires is near at hand. Rapidly drying soil has left the old grass, brush, leaves, etc., in most perilous condition for starting fires.

An effort is being made by the fire rangers in this province to keep down the forest losses this year to a minimum. They will succeed only if every camper carefully extinguishes his campfire before leaving it, if every smoker refrains from tossing away burnt matches or tobacco in or near a wood, and if settlers in the newly opened districts guard their land-clearing fires with the utmost care. Settlers' fires continue to be the very worst source of forest conflagration, although campers and careless smokers are close competitors.

"The fire rangers," says the Canadian Forestry Association, "want every good citizen to regard himself as a deputy ranger from now until November first."

"A Canadian forest was never worth so much as today, never gave so many jobs as today, never put money into circulation as it does this year."

SPRING IMPURITIES

CLOG THE BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine Is a Necessity at This Season

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round tonic, blood-builder and nerve restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season of the year when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to make new, red blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give new strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, erysipelas and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life, that the blood most seriously needs attention. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually renew and enrich the blood, and this new blood reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, bringing new health and new strength to weak, easily tired men, women and children.—Here is a bit of proof: Miss Anna Patterson, R. F. D. No. 1, Thorold, Ont., says:—"My trouble was one of general weakness, which thinned my blood and gave me at times unbearable headaches, loss of appetite and also loss in weight. I tried several medicines, but without success. Then I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a fair trial. The result is that I feel like a new person. My appetite improved, I gained in weight, my blood is thoroughly purified, and my face cleared of some unsightly pimples which had troubled me. If one good turn deserves another then I have much pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you need a medicine this spring try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they will not disappoint you. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or you can get them by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Back Ache!

NATURE gives warning of approaching disaster, and backache tells you that the kidneys are deranged.

As soon as the kidneys fail poisons are left in the blood, which cause aches and pains, rheumatism and lumbago.

The digestive system is interfered with, and there is gradual loss of flesh and harshness and dryness of the skin. There is often headache and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

The most effective treatment is that which awakens the action of the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, for these organs work together in removing the poisonous impurities from the system.

This is the reason why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so successful in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys. This is why they frequently cure when ordinary kidney medicines fail.

Just put this medicine to the test when you have backache, headache and other indications that these filtering and eliminating organs are sluggish in action, and see how quickly they will respond.

Prevention is always the wiser course. For this reason it is well to keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills at hand, and by regulating these organs forestall serious disease.

Two Questions

With so many low-priced so-called anti-skids obtainable, would that great host of motorists pay more for Dunlop "Traction" Tread if they could get its merits elsewhere?

Also, would that other large list of car owners buy "SPECIAL" if tires which somewhat resemble it in appearance resembled it in efficiency?

Give Your Support to The Sailor

Another demand is being made for assistance to one of the most worthy causes of the many that we have had to support during the last three years, that of monetary assistance to the Navy League of Canada.

The Navy league is a patriotic, non-party organization whose principal aim is to bring home to the people of Canada the vital importance of retaining, at whatever sacrifice, the supreme command of the sea. To carry on regular relief work and make ample provision for the widows and orphans of the brave men who have lost their lives to enable our farmers to send their grain overseas, to carry our products of all kinds to where it is so greatly needed—but who counted not the cost of their faithful adherence to duty so that others might live even if in so doing they lost all that was most precious to them.

WHAT THE NAVY IS DOING

The Navy has done a great deal in the present war. It has prevented the enemy from invading our shores; it has enabled our wheat and farm products to cross the ocean, without which our men would starve; it has protected transports carrying over thirteen millions of men, over two million horses, twenty-six million tons of munitions and war supplies, and over fifty-three million tons of coal and oil have been conveyed. The Navy has safeguarded within the Empire alone nearly one hundred and forty million tons of food and materials.

THE NAVY SAVED THE EMPIRE

The War Cabinet's review of the events of the past year shows that the British Navy saved the Empire in 1917 and saved the world from German domination at the same time.

In February of last year the unrestricted submarine piracy of the Hun had reached its highest point. That sinkings of ships had become serious was well known at that time. But what was not known was that if the enemy had been able to maintain the rate of destruction of that month, by February of this year the military forces of Britain and France would have been paralyzed. Germany would have won the war.

But the British Navy rose to the emergency and sank the submarines. It perfected method after method for dealing with piracy. It invented depth bombs and utilized balloons and airplanes for observation purposes. It created a great fleet of submarine chasers.

Today German submarines are sunk or captured almost as fast as they are built.

DONATE LIBERALLY

Nearly every other war organization but this has been supported handsomely in this district and now it is hoped that this cause will receive the genuine and hearty support of every farmer and business man in this district where it is hoped that the sum of $1000 will be realized. Alberta has been set to raise $150,000.

Your donation can be sent or brought to The PIONEER, T. W. Cuncannon, A. Brusco, W. Hunsperger or J. W. Doran.

In Flanders' Fields

By the Late Lieut.-Col. John McCrae

In Flanders' fields the poppies blow

Between the crosses row on row,

That mark our place, and in the sky

The larks still bravely singing fly,

Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago

We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,

Loved and were loved, and now we lie

In Flanders' fields.

Take up the quarrel with the foe,

To you from falling hands we throw

The Torch—be yours to hold it high;

If ye break faith with us who die,

We shall not sleep though poppies grow

In Flanders' fields.
